Bio

Thirty years ago Manuel had the chance to shoot a Davis Cup tennis match in Argentina. Learning how to play with the camera settings that afternoon influenced him greatly, turning photography into a lifelong companion. Add to this a natural perceptive ability born out of a passion for details and you have a photographer with unwavering love and dedication to his art. When three of his photographs were added to the short list at the CannesAlso photography contest, part of the Cannes Lions Festival in France — and after receiving numerous recognition awards on juried competitions, he was invited to exhibit his work in Miami, Los Angeles, New York and Mexico City. Manuel's passion for photography is combined with a two decade long marketing career, influencing in part, his conceptual narrative. His travels around the world have also been an important and meaningful way to show his versatility not only in his fine art street photography, but with his landscapes and cityscapes pieces as well. Manuel works and lives in Miami.
